

Summers Road to be Re-Named

Summers Road, Fish Creek is set to be renamed to Kerrs Road following Council's decision yesterday to clarify the location for ease of navigation.

Both road names are located on one continuous stretch of road which is causing confusion for drivers travelling in the area.

The general public, transport vehicles, and emergency services often find it difficult to navigate the road names and property numbers.

In addition to these issues there is another road named Summers Road seven kilometres away to the north east of Fish Creek.

Summers Road was identified as a priority to reduce any unnecessary delays for emergency services not being able to find the correct address.

Council called for community comment on the proposed renaming in September 2016 and received no submissions against the name change allowing the proposal to proceed.

The entire length of road will be called Kerrs Road following approval from the Registrar of Geographic Place Names.

If approved Council will place a notice in local newspapers and advise adjoining land owners and other local stakeholders of the new road name.

This change will make the overall extent of road approximately 6,840 metres from Fish Creek Walkerville Road to Buffalo Waratah Road.
