Mayor's Message

The ability and contribution made by people with disabilities, their right to make meaningful decisions about their own lives and to participate in decision-making about the communities in which they live.

For people with disability, the present era is a dynamic one – the implementation of the National Disability Insurance Scheme and a changing political climate means that the lives of people with disability living in Australia will change significantly over the coming years, and during the life of this Plan.

As Councillor representative on Council's Access and Inclusion Advisory Committee, I wish to acknowledge the role of this Committee in providing advice and direction to Council on matters related to disability, access and inclusion. The contribution of this Committee to the making our community inclusive is an important and valued one.

Council can also contribute through championing and demonstrating inclusive practice and attitudes, and equity and access to all services, facilities and information. This Plan demonstrates Council's ongoing commitment to creating an environment which is inclusive, accessible and supportive of all.

Cr. Lorraine Brunt

Mayor

Introduction

South Gippsland Shire Council's Disability Action Plan 2018-2022 aims to improve the way Council responds to the needs of people with disability, their families and carers, and service providers. Actions requiring a new investment from Council will be assessed against the Council Plan.

The Plan has been developed with input from people with disability, their families and carers, service providers and Council staff. At a strategic level, the Plan seeks to build a more accessible and inclusive community in which people with disability have increased opportunity to participate and make meaningful choices about their lives. From a practical perspective, the Plan outlines what will be done, by whom, when, and the resources required to achieve this.

What is a Disability Action Plan?

A Disability Action Plan (DAP) is a Plan that allows organisations to address access and inclusion issues for people with disability. A DAP is mandated by the Disability Act 2006 for all public sector bodies.

According to s.38 of this Act, the Plan must:

- Reduce barriers to persons with a disability accessing goods, services and facilities;
- Reduce barriers to persons with a disability obtaining and maintaining employment;
- Promote inclusion and participation in the community of persons with a disability; and
- Achieve tangible changes in attitudes and practices which discriminate against persons with a disability.

The Plan will be lodged with the Australian Human Rights Commission and implementation of the Plan will be reported quarterly to Council.

Description of Disability

Disability can occur at any time in life. Some disabilities occur at birth however, most people acquire their disability as an adult. Disability can occur suddenly, through accident or illness, or it can occur over a period of time. Some forms of disability, such as depression or epilepsy, come and go. Others are temporary, as with someone who breaks a leg or an arm.

Some disabilities are obvious, such as someone using a wheelchair. Others like hearing impairment, diabetes or epilepsy are not. Some people have more than one disability.

It is important to remember that people with a disability can also be carers for and supports to others. The actions outlined in this plan intend to address access and inclusion issues not only for individuals with disability, but also for their families, service providers and supports, as well as the broader community.

The Disability Discrimination Act

The Disability Discrimination Act 1992 (DDA) was developed to protect everyone in Australia from discrimination based on disability. Under this Act, 'disability' is broadly defined to offer protection to everyone with a disability, whether the disability is physical, intellectual, psychiatric, neurological, sensory or learning, or relates to the presence in the body of disease-causing organisms.

The definition also includes people who currently have a disability, who had a disability in the past, who may have a disability in the future (such as a condition that runs in the family), who are believed to have a disability and who have assistance for a disability.

The Act seeks to:

- Ensure that persons with disabilities have the same rights to equality before the law as the rest of the community;
- Promote recognition and acceptance within the community of the principle that people with disabilities have the same fundamental rights as the rest of the community; and
- Where possible, eliminate discrimination against persons based on disability in the areas of employment, education, access to premises, provision of goods, facilities, services, accommodation, clubs, associations, sport and buying land.

Our Vision for South Gippsland

Council's Vision as stated in the Council Plan 2017-2021 articulates a vision for South Gippsland, guiding Council in the development of strategies and plans to ensure they respond to the needs of the community.

“South Gippsland is a place where our quality of life and sense of community are balanced by sustainable and sensitive development, population and economic growth”

Council Plan 2017-2021

Council further commits to:

- Value the contribution made by everyone; to listen to you and each other.
- Value individual diversity, act with respect and professionalism in our interactions with you and each other, and never seek to undermine, mislead or undervalue anyone.
- Value opportunities that come from change, keeping our focus on the future and our responses flexible for a constantly evolving world.
- Value the community spirit, vibrancy and unique character of each of our towns and rural areas.
- Encourage our communities and support our community leaders.

- Value the depth and breadth of creative thinking and the outcomes that can be achieved from working closely with our communities, businesses, supporting agencies, government agencies and other councils.
- Embrace and encourage community engagement, work collaboratively with others and establish partnerships that benefit our communities and the wider region.
- Value our reputation in the community and the region, and acknowledge that we are the guardians of community information.
- Respect the trust placed in us by seeking to be as open and transparent in our decisions as the law allows, to help the community understand the decisions Council makes.
- Value constructive criticism that helps us understand how and where we need to improve.
- Proactively reflect on our own behaviour, that of each other and of the organisation as a whole, to continually build the capacity, passion and success of this Council.

Access and Inclusion Advisory Committee

The Access and Inclusion Advisory Committee provides strategic and practical advice to Council on issues related to disability, access and inclusion. In working with this Committee, Council aims to create a community that is inclusive, accessible and equitable to all.

The Committee has been in existence since 2001 and is made up of community representatives, including individuals with disability, family members and carers and service providers. The Mayor, as the Councillor Representative, and Community Strengthening Officer are also members of the Committee.

Consultation and Engagement

Consultation to develop the Plan was undertaken between October and December 2017. Types of engagement included:

- Meetings with community members and Council Staff,
- Meetings with and presentations to the Access and Inclusion Advisory Committee,
- Request for comment from external agencies.

Council Services and Provisions for people with Disabilities

Council provides a range of services and programs for the South Gippsland community. Some services are specific to the needs of people with disabilities, their families and carers.

These include:

- Mobility maps – maps of the four major towns, outlining accessible paths of travel, accessible parking and toilets, as well as other community locations.
- Parking permits – administration of the Disabled Persons Parking Permit scheme.
- All terrain wheel chair – available for loan by residents and visitors to be used on beaches, rail trails and other locations to provide access to the natural environment.
- Mobility matting – to assist in ease of walking and wheel chair use on unstable ground, available for use at community events and for long-term loan to improve access to the built or natural environment.
- Companion Card – allowing free entry for carers to participating events.

These are accepted at Council and community events.

International context

The United Nations Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disability (the Convention) states that “disability results from the interaction between persons with impairments and attitudinal and environmental barriers that hinder their full and effective participation in society on an equal basis with others”¹. This Convention highlights that it is these barriers which are the cause of disability, and seeks to foster attitudes and environments which enable individuals rather than disabling them.

The principles of this Convention, upon which local, State and Commonwealth policy on disability are built, relate to:

- Respect for inherent dignity, individual autonomy including the freedom to make one’s own choices, and independence of persons,
- Non-discrimination,
- Full and effective participation and inclusion in society,
- Respect for difference and acceptance of persons with disabilities as part of human diversity and humanity,
- Equality of opportunity,
- Accessibility of services, information and facilities to allow for greater autonomy and choice for people with disabilities,
- Equality between men and women; and
- Respect for the evolving capacities of children with disabilities and respect for the right of children with disabilities to preserve their identities.

Federal and State context

Under Federal² and State³ legislation and policy, it is against the law to discriminate because of disability. All Victorian state government departments, statutory authorities and corporations, and local councils have obligations under these laws to respect, protect and fulfil the rights of people with a disability and to take positive action towards “substantive equality”. Positive action is interpreted as: making “reasonable adjustments and accommodations for persons with disabilities and parent/carer responsibilities”, helping to remove some of the structural barriers to equality”.

The *Victorian State Disability Plan 2017-2020*⁵ reflects the Government commitment to ensuring that people with disabilities have the chance to participate fully in Victoria’s economy and communities.

This plan continues the reform of services to provide greater alignment of State and local planning, multi-agency collaboration and seeks to enable inclusive communities.

Local Government is a key stakeholder and providers of services at a local level.

National Disability Insurance Scheme

The National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS) was launched in July 2013, as a new way of providing individualised support for eligible people with permanent and significant disability, their families and carers. It provides a flexible, whole-of-life approach to the support needed by people with a disability, to pursue their goals and aspirations and participate in daily life.

The implementation of the NDIS commenced in South Gippsland from 1 October 2017, with the transition period ending on 30 September 2018. It is very important for Local, State and Federal Government to work together to ensure successful implementation of the NDIS.

Local context

The South Gippsland population is estimated to be 28,936. In South Gippsland Shire, 1,585 people or 5.5% of the population report that they need help in their day-to-day lives due to disability.⁶

The age structure in South Gippsland indicates higher proportion of persons at post retirement age than Victoria⁵. As carers age there will be less people in the community to provide support for people with disability. In South Gippsland Shire, there are 3,018 carers providing unpaid assistance to a person with a disability, long term illness or old age.⁶

The need for services to be accessible and inclusive is well recognised by South Gippsland Shire Council. This is reflected in provision of programs, specialist staff and the existence of a Disability Plan and Access and Inclusion Advisory Committee which provides advice to Council on matters related to disability, access and inclusion. As part of this role, the Committee provides input to the Disability Action Plan.

The Access and Inclusion Advisory Committee is made up of representatives of the community and the Council. Committee meetings are usually held monthly.

Achievements from Previous Access and Inclusion Plan

South Gippsland Shire Council first implemented an Access and Inclusion Plan in 2007.

The most recent Disability Action Plan 2013 – 2016 achieved the following actions:

- (it's no) drama project provided an opportunity for performers with and without disability to develop and deliver an original work, in partnership with local artists and the Creative Arts Industry.
- Annual Community Engagement Conference includes a focus on accessibility and inclusion, providing support for community organisations to provide inclusive services, facilities and information.
- Council business is now more accessible due to improvements to Council's website, with a focus on communication access (inclusion of public documents in MS Word format) and Council Meetings being available via live stream.
- Council's Style & Writing Guide and the Community Engagement Plan and Toolkit include accessibility criteria and inclusive communication methods.
- Good Access is Good Business information distributed to a range of businesses across the municipality.
- Volunteering mentors identified and supported to develop a greater understanding of the needs in the volunteering sector for people with disabilities.
- Access auditing of Council's community assets, including buildings and reserves, and designated accessible parking, undertaken on a priority basis.
- Partnering with Work Solutions Gippsland to deliver an annual Job Shadow Day, where job seekers with a disability shadow job hosts in Council.
- Broader community representation in the Access and Inclusion Advisory Committee.

Areas for improvement

The review identified the following areas for improvement and possible future action:

- Council's induction program to include more information about disability and inclusion, such as Communication Access videos to deliver information to new starts.
- Access equipment, such as accessible wheelchairs and matting, are available to improve access to the natural environment, including local beaches.
- Increasing the availability of Accessible tourism information both online and in Visitor Information Centres. Further work with Prom Country Regional Tourism is needed to determine explore online accessibility content, including a self-assessment tool for business owners and operators. Accessible Tourism tools to be developed and promoted to businesses. Mobility maps are recommended to move to online format.
- Provide an Annual/Biennial report to Council and AIAC on actions completed.
- Greater focus on communication access and accessible culture, particularly in recreational facilities, rather than the built environment.
- Development and promotion of Best Practice Case Studies in the areas of business, recreation and employment to promote the benefits of access and inclusion across the community.
- Improvements to infrastructure upgrades continue to be a challenge due to financial constraints. Specific funding will be required to make improvements outside identified wider infrastructure projects if we are to meet current Australian Standards across all assets.

Action Planning

1. Reduce barriers to persons with disability accessing services, goods and facilities

It is often not so much a person's disability that makes life difficult to access good services and facilities; it is more that the physical or information environment places barriers that exclude them from the community and using mainstream services.

Action Planning

1. Reduce barriers to persons with disability obtaining and maintaining employment and volunteering opportunities

People with disability represent an untapped potential in the Australian workforce – people with disability experience higher unemployment and earn less than persons without a disability. There is great importance in employment as a means of earning an income and contributing to one’s overall personal identity.

ASPIRATION 2.1
Ensure that Council has employment policies and practices that eliminate discrimination and address barriers to paid employment.

Action Planning

4. Achieve tangible changes in attitudes and practices which discriminate against persons with disability
