

How to Stay In The Know

South Gippsland Shire Council is encouraging residents to sign up to In The Know, an online newsletter that provides fortnightly Council updates, with a chance to win a double pass to the Stadium 4 Cinemas in Leongatha.

The e-newsletter has been updated recently to cover more of what may be of interest to community members including what's on, opportunities to have your say, Council decisions and more. By receiving the fortnightly reminder those registered never miss an opportunity to be heard and know how to connect within their community and be involved.

South Gippsland Shire Council Administrator Julie Eisenbise wanted to ensure that people knew they could register for In The Know as a way to stay up to date with Council goings-on.

"In The Know is just one way that our community members can connect with us – it's not just Council decisions, it also includes upcoming events and opportunities to get involved in projects that may be of interest.

"Past community satisfaction surveys have indicated that community members have felt out of touch with Council activities in the past. Signing up to In The Know can help solve this problem with regular advice on what's happening at the moment," said Ms Eisenbise.

Winners of the double passes to Stadium 4 Cinemas will be drawn at random on Friday 31 January and announced on Council's Facebook page. The winners will be notified via the email address they register with. Those already subscribed will be included in the draw.

New editions are released every fortnight on a Thursday. Those who register will receive a welcome email and a copy of the most recent edition.
