

Women's Board Leadership Program Success

South Gippsland Shire Council would like to congratulate our Access and Inclusion Officer Alisha Gilliland for receiving a scholarship for the Women's Board Leadership Program

The Victorian Government's Women's Board Leadership Program provides governance training and mentoring to help women advance their board careers. The program encourages women to serve, stay and excel on community and government boards.

The leadership program received a large number of applications from high calibre candidates – making Alisha's selection a significant achievement.

South Gippsland Shire Council's Chair Administrator Julie Eisenbise wanted to congratulate Alisha for her hard work and her acceptance into the program.

"I was delighted to hear that one of our own staff had been selected by the Victorian Government to participate in the Women's Board Leadership Program.

"This is a wonderful achievement for Alisha and I wanted to wish her all the best for this program. I have no doubt it will be beneficial since she will have access to courses from the Australian Institute of Company Directors and an opportunity to build her governance knowledge and leadership skills.

"I look forward to hearing from Alisha as the program progresses and can't wait to see how this will further strengthen her work here in South Gippsland," said Ms Eisenbise.
