

South Gippsland Community Leadership Program Participants Announced

South Gippsland Shire Council would like to welcome on board this year's Community Leadership Program participants. The 20 participants from across South Gippsland will undertake a nine-session program starting in October. The program aims to provide participants with a set of skills that will enable them to effectively work with other people, strengthen their leadership capability, manage conflict, delegate and meet objectives.

South Gippsland Shire's Chair Administrator Julie Eisenbise is excited about this year's program and the skills it will provide to participants.

"We are so pleased to be welcoming this year's Community Leadership Program participants and we would like to thank them – and everyone who took the time to apply – for their interest in taking on a leadership role within the South Gippsland community. The program was limited to 20 participants as this was considered an optimal number of participants for this type of learning but we hope to run more programs in the future.

"Leadership can take on many forms. Some people might be interested in learning how to contribute more effectively in their community group or learn how to motivate people or to inspire cooperation. Others might want to engage with Council to effect change. We are excited to see what skills participants will take from the Community Leadership Program and how that will flow on to our local community," said Ms Eisenbise.
