South Gippsland Shire Council News Writers are in the Libraries

Five local writers have been selected and are undertaking their one-month residency across four of our libraries.

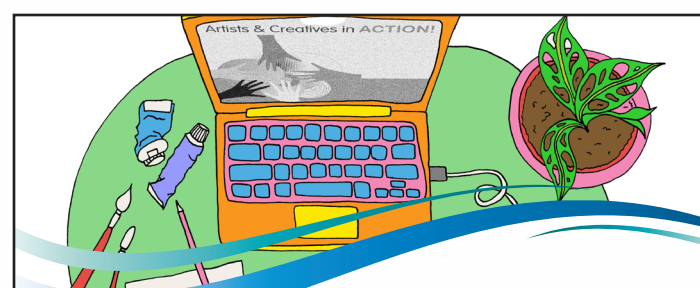

Jenny Taylor, Jillian Durance, CS Hughes, John Tebbutt and the Loch Writers Group have all been tasked with completing either a poem, short story, essay or song that responds to the themes of isolation, emergence and connection.

The program is part of South Gippsland Shire Council's $2M COVID-19 Community Support Package that aims to assist our regions recovery post the COVID-19 pandemic. As part of this package, $252,000 has been allocated to ten creative projects. Through this investment, it is hoped that the profile of arts and culture in South Gippsland will be raised through a diverse range of events, workshops and activities.

As part of the residency, the local writers will be at their assigned library at allocated times. To find out when these are, please visit:
