

Our People Podcasts

South Gippsland Shire Council's 'Our People' podcast series will launch on Thursday 1 July.

The podcasts tell the stories of six people who call South Gippsland home. Some of the storytellers grew up here before moving away and then returning, while others made a tree or sea change. The stories told are as diverse as the region itself and provide a fascinating insight into why people love living in South Gippsland.

The podcasts were recorded by local company JetStreamer and each storyteller was matched with a South Gippsland-based photographer to help listeners put a face to the person behind the story.

The podcasts feature farmers who have chosen to diversify, a local artist, sea and tree changers, a historian and a chef.

A new podcast will be released each fortnight and will be available via Apple Podcasts and Spotify.

They will also be available via Council's website at:

Quotes attributable to South Gippsland Shire Council CEO, Kerryn Ellis:

The Our People podcasts provides an insight into what attracts people to South Gippsland. We hope that the stories will be of interests to other residents and helpful for people that may be considering relocating to our region.

Listening to the real-life experiences of other people and hearing the passion they have for where they live is both enjoyable and inspiring. We hope that people will take a moment to listen in as each podcast is released.
