South Gippsland Shire Council News

Let us tell you a story

Over the past few weeks, South Gippsland Shire Council has released four podcasts that tell the story of some of our lovely community members.

The Our People Podcast series was developed by Council staff in collaboration with Jet Streamer who recorded the podcasts and a number of local photographers to help capture the faces behind the microphone.

The podcasts have been created with potential new residents in mind, giving them the opportunity to hear directly from residents what they love about living, working and thriving in our region.

However, this does not mean residents can't have a listen. In fact, we believe it is a great opportunity to get to know others in your community and feel proud to be part of this amazing community.

So far in the series, we have heard from local farmers, an artist, a chef and a small business owner – and there is still two more podcasts to come!

If you would like to listen to these podcasts, you can find them on Apple Podcasts, Spotify and through Council's website here:
