Our People Podcast Five is Live

The 'Our People' podcast has been running for a few months now and features stories from local residents. In this series, we hear from a broad range of residents and learn what makes South Gippsland special to them.

In this fortnight's release, we spoke with Robert who has come full circle and is now a passionate advocate for the South Gippsland region.

Robert grew up on dairy farms near Korumburra. He then left the area before returning to settle in Mirboo North where he became involved with his local community (and the wider South Gippsland community) by volunteering with a community-run newspaper.

He loves the natural beauty of the area and the lifestyle that comes along with it. He considers South Gippsland to be a place where real things can get done by real people working together. He is deeply interested in the history of the region and the importance of volunteerism.

Robert's story touches on his own personal experiences in South Gippsland and the changes that he has witnessed over the years. It's hard not to be inspired by his natural enthusiasm.

If you would like to listen to this podcast, or any of the others in this series, you can find them on Apple Podcasts and Spotify, as well as through Council's website here: www.southgippsland.vic.gov.au/ourpeoplepodcasts
