

South Gippsland Small Business Clinic

In partnership with the Small Business Mentoring Service, Council is offering free mentoring for small businesses operators in South Gippsland.

An experienced business mentor will provide tailored, one-on-one guidance for anyone planning to start a new business or grow an existing one.

Business owners or managers can use the session to seek advice on starting a venture, managing daily operations, strategic planning, budgeting and cash flow, succession planning and grant funding.

Five hour-long mentoring sessions will be held on Wednesday 9 April. Participants can join online or via phone.

Quote attributable to South Gippsland Shire Council Mayor, John Schelling:

"It's great that Council can provide these sessions to support small business people who are facing a whole range of challenges as they navigate growing and maintaining their operations. This is also a fantastic opportunity for people who are thinking about starting a business to get some support on how best to get their idea off the ground. We are always happy to see businesses in South Gippsland thrive."
